1 I. SUMMARY OF THE ARGUMENT

2 The Liner Grode Stein Yankelevitz Sunshine Regensteif & Taylor, LLP (“Liner”) Opposition
3 to Mr. Flynn’s Request to conform Judge Cooke’s Order re: Motion for Sanctions, docket #985
4 (“Sanctions Order”), to Judge Pro’s Order on that Order, docket #1150 (“District Order”), is factually
5 incorrect, legally unsupported, and without merit. Mr. Flynn’s motion to conform (dockets #1151 & 6 1152) should be granted. The crux of the issue here is that the District Court wants it made clear that 7 the if the Sanctions Order intended to sanction Liner under the Court’s inherent powers then it must

1 be made clearer.

2 The Liner firm committed deliberate discovery abuse. They should not be permitted to escape
 3 punishment on a technicality that the law and the District Order allow to be corrected, particularly since 4 (a) the findings of “bad faith” by Liner are completed and were not disturbed upon the District Court’s 5 review; (b) the Sanctions order clearly intended to sanction Liner under the Court’s inherent powers; 6 (c) the District Order surely permitted such a clarification since it states that there may be “further 7 proceedings;” and (d) not making this clarification would allow a guilty Los Angeles law firm to escape 8 punishment for their substantial misconduct.

9 Liner’s current and self-determined allegation that the most that they did wrong was 10 “negligently supervise” two errant lawyers, Ms. Klar and Pham, is incontrovertibly untrue and cannot 11 be reconciled with the Sanctions Order. (Id.). For over eight months Liner systematically financed 12 comprehensive attempts to subvert Nevada laws and Orders, aided in the subornation of perjury, billed 13 millions of dollars while violating the law, and then (arrogantly) tried to blame the judge. Emails show 14 that three named partners, along with Klar and Pham, were billing astounding amounts on Edra 15 Blixseth’s cases, namely Liner, Grode, and Yankelevitz, while Klar and Pham were engaging in 16 egregious litigation misconduct in Nevada, which vexatiously increased this Court’s work.

17 Now that Liner has been caught, they strenuously attempt to evade or escape punishment on 18 a technicality and further mock our justice system. Only when they knew they were caught, after more 19 than a year of misconduct, did senior partners remove Klar and Pham, and then only to have their 20 clients confess $26.5 million dollars in judgments, which has never been paid, in order to conceal the 21 misconduct they implemented in active collusion with their clients. In reality, that appears to be how 22 the Liner firm conducts business (although hopefully the Sanctions Order has been a reminder that it 23 is not worth it). In addition to failing to cite any law whatsoever to support their opposition, as a 24 matter of public policy and to uphold the integrity of the rule of law, they should not escape
 25 punishment. Under these circumstances, including a finding of “complicity” in drafting a perjured 26 declaration, to let Liner escape punishment would be unjust to Nevada’s federal court.

1 II. ARGUMENT2 A. Liner's Contention That There Was No Finding of "Bad Faith," or That the
3 Record Does Not Support Such a Finding, is Incontrovertibly Incorrect4 The Sanctions Order states that Liner acted in bad faith and it is replete with findings of fact
5 showing Liner's bad faith, as detailed below. So Liner's contention that there were "no" findings that 6 they acted in "bad faith" is untrue. (Liner memo, 1:27-2:8, 7:15).

7 The first page of the Sanctions Order states,

8 "[t]he court concludes that the conduct of the Liner firm and its attorneys ... was willfully
9 reckless, intended to harass, done for an improper purpose and was suffused with bad faith."
(Order #985, 1:20-2:4; see also 45:10-13, 48:8-20, 50:12-27 [emphasis added]).10 The Order also states that "[t]he Liner firm also bears responsibility for what occurred in this 11 proceeding," and "[t]he Court finds that the Liner firm acquiesced to or willingly carried out Ms.
12 Klar's litigation strategy." (Id., 48:8-20 [emphasis added]). Liner acted through its partners Deborah 13 Klar and Teri Pham and other lawyers who also acted in bad faith. Liner provided the resources, the 14 money, and they billed millions of dollars in a short time to perpetrate their misconduct on behalf of 15 and in collusion with their clients.

16 Amongst other things the Court found that 17 "the conduct of Ms. Klar and Ms. Pham epitomizes the scorched earth litigation tactics that 18 undermines citizen's confidence in our courts and our system of justice. The court cannot allow 19 attorneys who practice before it to operate as hired bounty hunters who—are with extensive resources—take it upon themselves to manipulate the legal system with impunity."20 The Court also found that Mr. Montgomery committed "perjury," and that Liner lawyers, "Ms. Klar 21 and Ms. Pham filed this perjured declaration in [this] Court and in California Superior Court." (Order 22 #985, p. 43, 47, 48, 49).23 Contrary to Liner's position, the Sanctions Order was found to be not erroneous and the perjury 24 findings were impliedly upheld as to it and directly upheld as to Montgomery. The joint and several 25 liability findings and conclusions were not disturbed. Thus, the thrust of the District Judge's Order 26 is that the only clarification needed is to unequivocally state that the Liner firm has been sanctioned 27 pursuant to the Court's inherent powers.

28 ///

1 The Sanctions Order also found that collectively, Liner, Ms. Klar and Pham, and Dennis and Brenda 2 Montgomery and the Montgomery Family Trust (“Montgomery”), (collectively “the sanctioned 3 parties”), acted “in bad faith or conduct tantamount to bad faith with the intention to undermine this 4 Court’s orders for the improper purpose of obtaining a more favorable forum ... Ms. Klar and Ms.
 5 Pham willfully abused the judicial process in this court ... they did so to delay or disrupt this litigation 6 to gain a tactical advantage ...Ms. Klar and Ms. Pham... multiplied these proceedings, and they did so 7 unreasonably and vexatiously ... Even if Ms. Klar’s and Ms. Pham’s conduct was not totally frivolous, 8 the court finds they were motivated by vindictiveness and bad faith. ... Ms. Klar and Ms. Pham acted 9 recklessly and with an improper intent ...Ms. Klar and Ms. Pham knew, or upon reasonable inquiry 10 should have known, that during Mr. Flynn’s representation of Mr. Montgomery ... there was no reason 11 whatsoever for Mr. Montgomery to concern himself with the state in which Mr. Flynn was admitted
 12 to practice law [because] ... were both duly admitted pro hac vice ... Even more disturbing, as events
 13 unfolded and this court issued orders that were contrary to Ms. Klar’s litigation strategy, she and Ms.
 14 Pham engaged in a continuous pattern of contempt of this Court. Every single court or bar entity
 15 that ultimately considered Ms. Klar and Ms. Pham’s campaign to divest this court of jurisdiction over
 16 these matters . . . concluded that they were wrong . . . [t]he conduct of Ms. Klar and Ms. Pham 17 epitomizes the scorched earth litigation tactics that undermines citizens’ confidence in our courts and 18 our system of justice,” etcetera. (See, e.g., Order #985, 1:20-24, 37:4-52:16, findings 88, 101, 111, 19 112, 116, 126, 133, 137, 139, 140). Liner was responsible for the aforementioned misdeeds of their 20 lawyers. (Order #985, p. 48, 50).

21 Liner’s contention that attorney Pham did not know that she could be sanctioned is factually
 22 dishonest. It’s all over the record. (Flynn Response to Objections of Ms. Pham, doc. #1098, §III.D)
 23 The opening paragraph of the sanctions motion explicitly recites that sanctions are sought against 24 Montgomery’s “counsel of record.”

25 Like the technicality with Liner, the technicality regarding Ms. Pham and Ms. Klar should 26 also be corrected now to avoid a possible appellate remand. Ms. Pham and Ms. Klar committed 27 egregious attorney misconduct---Pham indisputably and repeatedly lied to different Judges---and no 28

1 amount of Pham's shrill defiance or wasteful appeals will ever change those facts. Their current 2 appeals appear to be merely delaying tactics - more of what this Court has observed to be their 3 modus operandi.

4 The Sanctions Order found that Liner's partners deliberately violated "three orders" at 5 docket #291, 256, and 296. (Order #985, finding 140). The Order also found that Liner's partners
 6 and lawyers attempted to "undermine the effect of the United States protective order" regarding 7 military and states secrets, and the Courts work on the protective order had been ongoing since
 8 approximately September 2006. (See docket #83-2 [Negroponte decl.]; Order #985, findings 139,
 9 47, 50, 56, 71, 75 122, 134). Liner is responsible for their lawyers, which the Court recognized 10 when it considered Liner's history of misconduct. (Order #985, p. 38, 44-45, 1:20-2:4, 48:8-20, 11 50:12-27). Liner's contention that the findings against Liner were "sparse" is simply contrary to 12 the Sanctions Order. .

13 Accordingly, the Sanctions Order is "suffused" with evidence of Liner's bad faith, and it
 14 specifically found "bad faith" on Liner's part. (Order #985, 1:20-2:4, see also 45:10-13, 48:8-20, 15 50:12-27). These findings are supported by the record and were not disturbed by the District 16 Order. (Supra Order #985, including 1:20-25 37:4-48:7, 49:26-50:11, 52:4-16, findings 88, 101, 17 111, 112, 116, 126, 133, 137, 139, 140.).¹

22 There is no dispute that a law firm can be sanctioned under a Court's inherent powers.
 23 Chambers v. NASCO, Inc., 501 U.S. 32, 45-54, 115 L. Ed. 2d 27, 111 S. Ct. 2123 (1991). The 24 decision to award sanctions is a matter within the court's sound discretion. See Dahl v. City of 25 Huntington Beach, 84 F.3d 363, 367 (9th Cir. 1996); Wages v. Internal Revenue Service, 915 F.2d

27 ¹ Mr. Flynn notes that Liner's papers to the District Court, asking to review the Sanctions Order 28 at docket #985, were replete with misrepresentations, half truths, twisted rhetoric, and untruths, so their continued misconduct magnifies the need to affirm the Sanctions Order against the Liner firm.

 8 Ed. 2d 574 (1975); see also Hawk v. Sup. Ct. (1974) 42 CA3d 108, 126-27]).

9 In this case and on this issue, it appears that the District Order simply wants it made clear
 10 that the Sanctions Order is sanctioning Liner under the Court's "inherent powers." (District Order, 11 doc. #1150, 22:9-10).

12 Liner's contention that the District Order "rejected" that Liner was sanctioned under the 13 Court's inherent powers is untrue. The District Order said it wasn't clear. In particular, it states, 14 "To the extent the Magistrate Judge intended to sanction the Liner Firm under the Court's inherent 15 power, the sanctions order does not make that intention clear. (District Order, doc. #1150, 22:9-16 10). This is another example of Liner cherry-picking and leaving out obvious facts.

17 The District Order surely permits this clarification because it specifically states that with 18 regard to Liner, there may be "further proceedings," and twice it permits "further proceedings."
 19 (Id., 38:3-16). Also, the intent to sanction Liner under the court's "inherent power" was 20 evidenced by the following, at least, so this is not a "retroactive ruling," as Liner erroneously
 21 purports in their effort to escape punishment. (Liner memo, 4:18-20). We know that was the intent
 22 of the Sanctions Order from the very clear words used, including:

23 •First, the necessary findings of "bad faith" by Liner are in the Order. (Order, doc. #985; 24 supra § II. A). They are set forth above, so they will not be repeated.

25 •Second, the Sanction Order specifically states in three places that Liner is to be sanctioned
 26 "pursuant to [the Court'] inherent powers." (Doc. #985, 49:18-51:8 [emphasis added], 52:4-27
 28

12, 54:2-3).² However, once it was not made clear. (Doc. #985 48:16-19).

2 •Third, the Sanctions Order set forth the applicable law to sanction Liner under the Court's 3 inherent authority. (Doc. #985, 32:18-33:22).

4 Liner has cited nothing to support their contention that the Sanctions Order can not be 5 clarified. As a matter of law, (doc. #985), they engaged in bad faith litigation, and now they are 6 disingenuously trying to disown their lawyers, escape liability, blame the judge and simultaneously
7 justify their clearly sanctionable conduct. This proceeding is not the place to litigate issues
8 between Liner and its lawyers, which issues are not before this Court, (and Mr. Flynn believes is 9 the subject of separate ongoing litigation). Issues of attorney client privilege and more would 10 infect and unnecessarily expand this sanction proceeding. There is no evidence in this record that 11 Liner was not responsible for its lawyers—in fact, the evidence is to the contrary. (Supra, §II.A).

12 In short, since the Sanctions Order stated that it was sanctioning Liner under the court's 13 inherent powers, and since the District Order permits clarification, the Sanctions Order should be 14 clarified.

15 C. Liner's Allegation That Mr. Flynn's Motion is a Reconsideration is Nonsense

16 The motion is a motion to conform. It is not called a reconsideration, it does not ask the 17 Court to reverse itself—just the opposite, and it never argues anywhere that there are new facts
18 that must be considered. The Liner argument is frivolous.

19 III. CONCLUSION

20 The Liner firm's misconduct is the type of conduct that is undermining the legal 21 profession. The Liner firm vexatiously multiplied the proceedings and enabled their agents, primarily 22 Pham and Klar, to run amok making, inter alia, “stunning misrepresentations” and aiding and 23

24 ² The three locations where it is clear that Liner was being sanctioned pursuant to the Court's
25 inherent powers are as follows: (1) section IV of docket #985, entitled “Sanctions,” specifically discusses 26 Liner's misconduct, and then it specifically states, “Based upon the foregoing [which, again, included
27 Liner's misconduct] the court finds that pursuant to its inherent powers and 28 U.S.C. § 1927, the 28 following sanctions should issue,” and it goes on to sanction Liner. (Doc. #985, 49:18-51:8, 52:4-12
[emphasis added]). (2) On page 52:4-12, the Sanctions Order again specifically states that the Liner firm is being sanctioned “pursuant to the court's inherent power.” (Doc. #985, 52:4-12). (3) on page 54:2-3, again, the Sanction Order specifically states that sanctions were granted “pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §1927
and or pursuant to the inherent power of the court.” (Doc. #985, 54:2-3).

1 abetting “perjury,” while Liner raked in millions in legal fees in a short time. One would hope that 2 in light of the Sanctions Order and the District Court’s review of it that the Liner firm would 3 express some remorse for their misconduct or explain how they intend to prevent this from 4 happening again. But, instead, they have continued to twist the record and present half truths,
5 without any shame for their current attempts to evade punishment on technicalities that can be 6 corrected. The Sanctions Order is substantively correct and any procedural deficiency should be 7 clarified so that it is clear that sanctions were against the Liner firm under the Court’s inherent 8 powers for Liner’s bad faith conduct.

3 Record Does Not Support Such a Finding, is Incontrovertibly Incorrect4 The Sanctions Order states that Liner acted in bad faith and it is replete with findings of fact
5 showing Liner's bad faith, as detailed below. So Liner's contention that there were "no" findings that 6 they acted in "bad faith" is untrue. (Liner memo, 1:27-2:8, 7:15).

7 The first page of the Sanctions Order states,

8 "[t]he court concludes that the conduct of the Liner firm and its attorneys ... was willfully
9 reckless, intended to harass, done for an improper purpose and was suffused with bad faith."
(Order #985, 1:20-2:4; see also 45:10-13, 48:8-20, 50:12-27 [emphasis added]).10 The Order also states that "[t]he Liner firm also bears responsibility for what occurred in this

 12 to practice law [because] ... were both duly admitted pro hac vice ... Even more disturbing, as events
 13 unfolded and this court issued orders that were contrary to Ms. Klar’s litigation strategy, she and Ms.
 14 Pham engaged in a continuous pattern of contempt of this Court. Every single court or bar entity
 15 that ultimately considered Ms. Klar and Ms. Pham’s campaign to divest this court of jurisdiction over
 16 these matters . . . concluded that they were wrong . . . [t]he conduct of Ms. Klar and Ms. Pham
 17 epitomizes the scorched earth litigation tactics that undermines citizens’ confidence in our courts and 18 our system of justice,” etcetera. (See, e.g., Order #985, 1:20-24, 37:4-52:16, findings 88, 101, 111, 19 112, 116, 126, 133, 137, 139, 140). Liner was responsible for the aforementioned misdeeds of their 20 lawyers. (Order #985, p. 48, 50).

21 Liner’s contention that attorney Pham did not know that she could be sanctioned is factually
 22 dishonest. It’s all over the record. (Flynn Response to Objections of Ms. Pham, doc. #1098, §III.D)
 23 The opening paragraph of the sanctions motion explicitly recites that sanctions are sought against 24 Montgomery’s “counsel of record.”

25 Like the technicality with Liner, the technicality regarding Ms. Pham and Ms. Klar should 26 also be corrected now to avoid a possible appellate remand. Ms. Pham and Ms. Klar committed 27 egregious attorney misconduct---Pham indisputably and repeatedly lied to different Judges---and no 28

1 amount of Pham's shrill defiance or wasteful appeals will ever change those facts. Their current 2 appeals appear to be merely delaying tactics - more of what this Court has observed to be their 3 modus operandi.

4 The Sanctions Order found that Liner's partners deliberately violated "three orders" at 5 docket #291, 256, and 296. (Order #985, finding 140). The Order also found that Liner's partners
6 and lawyers attempted to "undermine the effect of the United States protective order" regarding 7 military and states secrets, and the Courts work on the protective order had been ongoing since
8 approximately September 2006. (See docket #83-2 [Negroponte decl.]; Order #985, findings 139,
9 47, 50, 56, 71, 75 122, 134). Liner is responsible for their lawyers, which the Court recognized 10 when it considered Liner's history of misconduct. (Order #985, p. 38, 44-45, 1:20-2:4, 48:8-20, 11 50:12-27). Liner's contention that the findings against Liner were "sparse" is simply contrary to 12 the Sanctions Order. .

13 Accordingly, the Sanctions Order is "suffused" with evidence of Liner's bad faith, and it
14 specifically found "bad faith" on Liner's part. (Order #985, 1:20-2:4, see also 45:10-13, 48:8-20, 15 50:12-27). These findings are supported by the record and were not disturbed by the District 16 Order. (Supra Order #985, including 1:20-25 37:4-48:7, 49:26-50:11, 52:4-16, findings 88, 101, 17 111, 112, 116, 126, 133, 137, 139, 140).¹

20 Sanctioned “Pursuant to the Court’s Inherent Powers,” And it is Clear That 21 the District Order Simply Wants That Issue Clarified

22 There is no dispute that a law firm can be sanctioned under a Court's inherent powers.
23 Chambers v. NASCO, Inc., 501 U.S. 32, 45-54, 115 L. Ed. 2d 27, 111 S. Ct. 2123 (1991). The 24 decision to award sanctions is a matter within the court's sound discretion. See Dahl v. City of

26 _____
27 ¹ Mr. Flynn notes that Liner's papers to the District Court, asking to review the Sanctions Order 28 at docket #985, were replete with misrepresentations, half truths, twisted rhetoric, and untruths, so their continued misconduct magnifies the need to affirm the Sanctions Order against the Liner firm.

 8 Ed. 2d 574 (1975); see also Hawk v. Sup. Ct. (1974) 42 CA3d 108, 126-27]).

9 In this case and on this issue, it appears that the District Order simply wants it made clear
 10 that the Sanctions Order is sanctioning Liner under the Court's "inherent powers." (District Order, 11 doc. #1150, 22:9-10).

12 Liner's contention that the District Order "rejected" that Liner was sanctioned under the 13 Court's inherent powers is untrue. The District Order said it wasn't clear. In particular, it states, 14 "To the extent the Magistrate Judge intended to sanction the Liner Firm under the Court's inherent 15 power, the sanctions order does not make that intention clear. (District Order, doc. #1150, 22:9-16 10). This is another example of Liner cherry-picking and leaving out obvious facts.

17 The District Order surely permits this clarification because it specifically states that with 18 regard to Liner, there may be "further proceedings," and twice it permits "further proceedings."
 19 (Id., 38:3-16). Also, the intent to sanction Liner under the court's "inherent power" was 20 evidenced by the following, at least, so this is not a "retroactive ruling," as Liner erroneously
 21 purports in their effort to escape punishment. (Liner memo, 4:18-20). We know that was the intent
 22 of the Sanctions Order from the very clear words used, including:

23 •First, the necessary findings of "bad faith" by Liner are in the Order. (Order, doc. #985; 24 supra § II. A). They are set forth above, so they will not be repeated.

25 •Second, the Sanction Order specifically states in three places that Liner is to be sanctioned
 26 "pursuant to [the Court'] inherent powers." (Doc. #985, 49:18-51:8 [emphasis added], 52:4-27
 28

12, 54:2-3).² However, once it was not made clear. (Doc. #985 48:16-19).

2 •Third, the Sanctions Order set forth the applicable law to sanction Liner under the Court's 3 inherent authority. (Doc. #985, 32:18-33:22).

4 Liner has cited nothing to support their contention that the Sanctions Order can not be 5 clarified. As a matter of law, (doc. #985), they engaged in bad faith litigation, and now they are 6 disingenuously trying to disown their lawyers, escape liability, blame the judge and simultaneously
7 justify their clearly sanctionable conduct. This proceeding is not the place to litigate issues
8 between Liner and its lawyers, which issues are not before this Court, (and Mr. Flynn believes is 9 the subject of separate ongoing litigation). Issues of attorney client privilege and more would 10 infect and unnecessarily expand this sanction proceeding. There is no evidence in this record that 11 Liner was not responsible for its lawyers—in fact, the evidence is to the contrary. (Supra, §II.A).

12 In short, since the Sanctions Order stated that it was sanctioning Liner under the court's 13 inherent powers, and since the District Order permits clarification, the Sanctions Order should be 14 clarified.

15 C. Liner's Allegation That Mr. Flynn's Motion is a Reconsideration is Nonsense

16 The motion is a motion to conform. It is not called a reconsideration, it does not ask the 17 Court to reverse itself—just the opposite, and it never argues anywhere that there are new facts
18 that must be considered. The Liner argument is frivolous.

20 The Liner firm's misconduct is the type of conduct that is undermining the legal 21 profession. The Liner firm vexatiously multiplied the proceedings and enabled their agents, primarily 22 Pham and Klar, to run amok making, inter alia, “stunning misrepresentations” and aiding and 23

24 ² The three locations where it is clear that Liner was being sanctioned pursuant to the Court's
25 inherent powers are as follows: (1) section IV of docket #985, entitled “Sanctions,” specifically discusses 26 Liner's misconduct, and then it specifically states, “Based upon the foregoing [which, again, included
27 Liner's misconduct] the court finds that pursuant to its inherent powers and 28 U.S.C. § 1927, the 28 following sanctions should issue,” and it goes on to sanction Liner. (Doc. #985, 49:18-51:8, 52:4-12
[emphasis added]). (2) On page 52:4-12, the Sanctions Order again specifically states that the Liner firm is being sanctioned “pursuant to the court's inherent power.” (Doc. #985, 52:4-12). (3) on page 54:2-3, again, the Sanction Order specifically states that sanctions were granted “pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §1927
and or pursuant to the inherent power of the court.” (Doc. #985, 54:2-3).

1 abetting “perjury,” while Liner raked in millions in legal fees in a short time. One would hope that
2 in light of the Sanctions Order and the District Court’s review of it that the Liner firm would 3 express some remorse for their misconduct or explain how they intend to prevent this from 4 happening again. But, instead, they have continued to twist the record and present half truths,
5 without any shame for their current attempts to evade punishment on technicalities that can be
6 corrected. The Sanctions Order is substantively correct and any procedural deficiency should be 7 clarified so that it is clear that sanctions were against the Liner firm under the Court’s inherent 8 powers for Liner’s bad faith conduct.
